Richard Nelson helps Scott Brownrigg open its first US office in New York

Richard, a former board member of SMPS NY who has been based in London since 2003 (and still maintaining his SMPS membership!), has been advising Scott Brownrigg (scottbrownrigg.com), a London-based international design firm providing architecture, master planning and interior design, for several years, and he recently helped the firm open a New York office located on Fifth Avenue. This is Scott Brownrigg's first venture in the US, and represents a significant strategic move into the North American market for the firm, reinforcing its international expansion strategy and its commitment to further growing its global business operations. The new office follows the opening of its Singapore office in 2012, which Richard was also heavily involved with and continues to support. Richard will be working closely with Chris Blackadder, who joined Scott Brownrigg to head up the NY office, and was formerly a principal with Woods Bagot, to continue to develop the firm's business in the US. He can be reached at r.nelson@scottbrownrigg.com or richard.nelson@abyssglobal.com.
